During Fiscal Year 2016, Institute scientists and staff continued their research into the genetics of degenerative nerve diseases. Institute investigators led or collaborated on thirteen different projects, working with partners in Bangalore, San Francisco, Seattle, Boston, New York, and Bozeman, Montana. Most work focused on diseases caused by propagation of protein misfolding that include frontotemporal dementia and Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, Huntington's, and prion diseases; results were published in peer-reviewed scientific journals. The Institute received $275,000 in new grants and renewals to fund this work, including two new NIH subawards. The Institute also continued its work funded by a two-year, matching grant of $904,500 from the State of Montana Department of Commerce with the goal of speeding translation of basic research on Alzheimer's disease and related dementias to patient care or disease prevention by establishing the Montana Center for Aging Research & Memory Care. This grant supports the Institute's research into memory disorders and neurodegeneration and lays the groundwork for collaborations with Benefis Health System, physician-scientists and other organizations committed to health and elder care, drawing on the research institute's extensive background in the study of the molecular and genetic causes of human dementia arising from the

4b (Code: ) (Expenses $ 19,190 including grants of $ 9,531 ) (Revenue $ 0 )

The Institute serves as a resource for science education in a rural region lacking a research university. Summer internships for high school students and teachers have long been available at the Institute. The goals of the Institute's education programs are to foster critical thinking, enhance science literacy, and help train the next generation of scientists. After a six-year, $517,000 grant from the Howard Hughes Medical Institute for a novel program to enhance science education ended in Fiscal Year 2014, the Institute returned to its original structure of two to three summer internships in Fiscal Years 2015 and 2016. In summer 2015, two pre-college students and one undergraduate participated in the Institute's laboratory internship programs, working with research staff using the neurosphere model to study prion susceptibility and infection. Institute faculty, postdoctoral fellows and research assistants worked with and trained the students in various lab processes, including immunostaining and imaging. While the HHMI project has been completed, the Institute is committed to continuing its long tradition of training and support for local students and teachers and continues to raise funds that specifically support these programs.

Form 990, Part VI, Section B, Line 11b - The Form 990 is prepared by finance staff, with additional review and advice from an outside accounting firm. The draft 990 is then reviewed in detail by the finance committee and submitted to the full board for review, questions and comments before filing.

Form 990, Part VI, Section B, Line 12c - Board members are required to complete a conflict of interest questionnaire on an annual basis. Institute activities are very specialized with a relatively small number of suppliers. The Financial Officer is responsible for monitoring transactions with parties related to board members. Form 990, Part VI, Section B, Line 15 - The Institute's Board of Directors and Scientific Advisory Committee review and approve compensation paid to the Institute's Director/President.
